Abstract

Vipulanandar was a pillar and supporter of the development of the Tamil sector. At an early age, he learned Tamil literatures and Sanskrit well. Due to this he became a great scholar. Vipulanadar, who was well versed in many languages and fields published his research and ideas in essays. Due to this, all the thoughts of Vipulanadar began to spread in Eelam. Educational thinking is one of his thoughts. The purpose of this study is to identify Swami Vipulanandar's education system and the importance given to the Tamil language in the education system. Education is one of the various works of Vipulananda. The problem with the study is that it has instilled a new thinking in educational theories that equality and knowledge of the mother tongue are essential. Descriptive analysis has been used in this study. Primary and secondary data are used. Vipulanandars' essays have been used as primary data and other texts, magazines, and articles as secondary data. Not only did he know education for the needs of the time, but also he wanted future generations to learn it, and devised educational systems for it. Over time, English education became a priority and Tamil development flourished. He laid down the education system and developed Tamil accordingly. That is, he insisted that the language we learn should be Tamil, even if we know our language and choose our studies. In that way he developed Tamil through education systems.
