

ILAMPUURANR'S TEXTUAL ABILITY: A STUDY BASED ON TOLKAAPPIYAM TEXT

Murukaiya Sathees¹

Correspondence: satheesmurukaiya@gmail.com

Abstract

Tolkappiyam is an ancient book on the antiquity and civilization of ancient Tamil. The text of the Ilampuranar's is unique, though various texts arise from time to time. He is credited with being the first to write a text that completes Tolkappim. In addition, he created a number of refined, later textual traditions. He was responsible for the spread of Tolkappiyam education and the emergence of the Tolkappiyam movement through these works. As well as being the leader of the movement. He earned the reputation of being a speechwriter. Thus he is also known as the forerunner of texts. Examining his texts, he specializes in ethnography, industry, religion, history, dialect, foreign language training, quizzes, semantics, multidisciplinary knowledge, civilization - cultural messages, quotation marks, syllables, idioms, syntactics. There are many specialties to be found including example and milk policies. It is with this in mind that the study aims to identify teenagers' texts by reading them, discovering their eloquence as a result, and documenting it for future generations. Ilampuranar's text have been used primarily for this study, as well as related essays, magazines, and electronic comments. The study also suggests that further studies on ilampuranar's text should be conducted by researchers, given the importance of epistemology.

Keywords: Tolkappiyam, Ilampuranar, Texts, Textual ability.

¹ Assistant lecturer, Department of Tamil, University of Jaffna